With regards to all of the numbered plants/shrubs, each numbered circle indicated one plant/shrub, details of which are as follows:-

1. Peony ~ This plant will (once mature) be kept at roughly 90cm tall. It is quite dense with big green leaves.

2. Fuscia ~ This plant will be maintained (when fully grown) at roughly 1 metre tall. It has small green leaves but it is still dense.

3. Buddleia ~ I already have this shrub so it will be fully mature when planted. It will be maintained at no more than 2 metres tall. It is not an overly dense shrub.

4. Honeysuckle ~ Again, I already own two honeysuckles (that are currently very small). These are climbing shrubs and will therefore grow as tall as you allow them. I intend to keep these level with the height of the garage (which is what it will be climbing) which is 2.2 metres.

5. Hebe ~ These are thick dense bushes that tend not to grow tall but out. These bushes will be kept to approximately 90 cm.

6. Clematis ~ I intend to have several types of clematis that flower at different times of year, however, all of them are climbers. At the front of the house they will be kept to the height of the fence which is 1 metre. In the rear garden they will be kept to a height of 1.9 metres.

7. Lupins ~ This plant will be kept at a height of between 60-120cm depending on how well they do. They are not very dense.

8. Sweetpeas ~ This shrub is a climber and as stated before will grow to any height you require. I intend to keep the sweetpeas to a height of 1.9 metres.

9. Fern ~ These are fairly dense trees and will be kept to a height of 1.2 metres in both the front and back gardens.

10. Jasmine ~ Another climber and will be kept to the height of 1.9 metres.

11. Hydranga ~ These are fairly dense bushes and will be kept at no more than 1.5 metres.

12. Fox Gloves ~ These are not very dense and will be kept between 60 cm – 1.2 metres depending on how well they do.

13. Gerbera ~ These will grow to between 45 – 60 cm.
