Good afternoon

Thank you for your enquiry. The installation of an air source heat pump would require an application for planning permission as at present there is no permitted development for this kind of installation on a non-domestic premises.

You can apply for full planning permission online at www.planningportal.co.uk/applications

Alternatively, you can download the appropriate application form here <https://www.planningportal.co.uk/app/downloadable-forms> and return to us via email or in the post. We would expect this to fall in the fee category of 'other operations' so the fee will be £298 (rising to £309, from 1st April 2026)

many thanks
