Dear Gemma

Further to our conversation yesterday

1. The exact location of Footpath T55

First attached is an extract of the Definitive Map of the public rights of way. To start I overlaid your plan to plot the sculpture location, and I can confirm your plan had the correct alignment of the public right of way on. What may cause confusion is that, from two aerial photos, it appears the stile at the south end is approx. 14 metres further west than the legal alignment, and at the north end of the field the stile onto the old railway line is either 6 or 10 metres further north along the fence compared to the legal line. On the plan I've added a dotted route labelled 'Desire line visible on ground' which the worn visible on the aerial photos between those points.

So my plan gives measurements along the boundaries to try and help pinpoint the legal alignment. However I was measuring along the centre-line as plotted by the Ordnance Survey and, a normal hedge could be 2 metres thick so needs to be allowed for. Please contact me if you'd like to discuss this further.

2. Temporary Footpath diversion for construction works

That requires a Temporary Traffic Regulation Order, which is the same law/process as for road closures. The details and relevant forms are on the web at: <https://www.leicestershire.gov.uk/roads-and-travel/road-maintenance/roadworks-closures-and-diversions>
