Subject: RE: Extension and cladding to barn, The Haven, Watery Lane

My client, Rob Oliver has reluctantly agreed to withdraw the application for extending the barn. Would it be possible to amend the application to just re-cladding the barn and using it partly for agricultural storage and partly personal workshop?

Regards

Mr Moore

I am writing to report progress on this application.

We have major concerns about this application, the proposed use (for domestic storage and industrial use in the countryside) and the extension of a building already a reasonable size on a small paddock and located in the countryside. I have also received the consultation from the Highways Officer who recommends refusal on highway safety grounds.

It is likely that the application will be recommended for refusal. I am not in the office now until 2nd January but you may wish to consider withdrawing the application.

Regards
