Alex,

In order for National Gas Transmission to lift the holding objection, you will need to provide a response from the HSE's Land Use Planning web application, which confirms that the HSE "Do Not Advise Against" the granting of planning permission.

I have checked the documents for the previously granted planning permission on the site, and I was unable to find a consultee comment from either National Grid, or the HSE when the planning application was granted. Could you please confirm if this is the case?

The HSE are a statutory consultee and must be approached for comment when assessing any planning application in the vicinity of a high pressure gas pipeline.

The holding objection will remain in place until the HSE response has been received.

Dear Jackie,

Thank you for your previous email with regards to a holding objection. The agent/applicant for the application has been trying to get in contact with you to discuss a way forward with this matter. Can you please let me know (as the planning case officer) if you need any further information at this time and can you confirm that the holding objection remains? An application was granted approval on this site earlier for 21 holiday lodges (ref 21/01390/FUL).

Regards
