Dear Sophie,

We appreciate being considered as part of the consultation on this application. However, we are typically only consulted on those applications within the Forest that exceed the National Forest planting thresholds, that is 0.5hectares for residential sites and 1hectare for non-residential sites.

Although the application form does not detail what the site area is, it appears to be below the 0.5ha residential threshold, and therefore we do not need to be consulted.

Please continue to consider the National Forest in your consideration of the application.

I am very happy to discuss the planting thresholds with you if this would be of assistance.

Kind Regards
Eilish
