Stance:	Customer objects to the Planning Application
Reasons for comment:
Comments:	What an uninspiring house design. The applicant seems to have overlooked the quite marked change in level between Forest Road and the house frontages. Will there be steps or ramps leading up to them. Until relatively recently, a detached two story house and linked workshop - both stone/brick built and rendered - stood close to the rear of the adjacent pavement. They were abruptly demolished - might have been a weekend job. Not only were that part of the village's history but also helped to provide some street-front continuity with the other older properties down the road. This application provides not detail as to how the road frontage of the site will be treated. It needs at least a drystone wall.

Kind regards
